

SUMMARY

Preface.	IX
Bibliography.	XIV
Summary	XXV

CHAPTER I.

Extraction of pope Alexander VI.

ARTICLE I. — His original name.

His baptismal and family names.	1
Authors asserting that he was a Lenzuoli.	2
Did his father or himself assume the Borgia name?	2
Did he receive the Borgia name from Calixtus III?	3
Some doubt wether he was a Lenzuoli or a Borgia.	4

ARTICLE II. — The family name of Alexander VI is de Borgia.

Ancient authors call him de Borgia.	6
The best modern historians call him de Borgia.	7
Roderic, when a boy, is called de Borgia in papal briefs.	9
Jofre, Roderic's father, was a born de Borgia.	12
A monument proves Alexander VI to be a de Borgia.	13
Jofre Lanzol changed his cognomen into de Borgia.	14
Roderic's brothers and sisters were all de Borgias.	14
Paladino's " Roderico Lenzvola D. Borgia " is spurious.	15

ARTICLE III. — Escutcheon of pope Alexander VI.

Was the escutcheon half Borgia and half Lenzuoli?	16
Specimens of Alexander VI's coat of arms.	17
The bars of Alexander's blazon are of the Doms.	18

ARTICLE IV. — Parents of pope Alexander VI.

His father was Jofre de Borgia.	20
His mother, Isabella de Borgia, sister of Calixtus III	21
At Jofre's death, Isabella moved to Valencia.	23
Grandparents of Alexander VI,	24

ARTICLE V. — Social rank of the Borgia house.

Roderic de Borgia called a nobleman in papal bulls.	27
His parents, brothers and sisters were all nobles.	28
His grandfather was a prominent nobleman.	29
Was Alexander's maternal grandfather a goody farmer?	30
Who had "four horses"?	30
All of whose daughters married noblemen	32
Roderic de Borgia's parents belonged to the nobility.	34

ARTICLE VI. — High nobility of the Borgia house.

Some modern writers belittle the Borgia house.	35
The Borgias were very conspicuous.	35
Some of the ancestors of pope Alexander VI.	37

ARTICLE VII. — Was Alexander VI of royal descent?

Two of Alexander's nephews marry into the royal house of Spain	38
The blazon of the Athares and of the Borgia is the same.	39
King Pedro Athares takes the title of Borgia.	40
Genealogical tree of the Borgia ancestors	41

CHAPTER II.

Paternal relatives of pope Alexander VI.

ARTICLE I. — Preliminary remarks.

Need of knowing pope Alexander's relatives.	43
Information of genealogists confusing.	44
What is meant by brother, by sister?	44
What did "nephew, niece," mean?	45
In one case, "nephew" is strictly nephew	46
Other terms designating relatives.	47
Rules observed in this report of relatives.	47

ARTICLE II. — Paternal uncles and aunts of pope Alexander VI.

Children of Rodrigo Gil de Borgia, Alexander's grandfather.	48
Rodrigo Gil junior.	49
Galceran Gil, duke of Spoleto.	49

ARTICLE III. — Cardinal Giovanni de Borgia senior.

Giovanni, son of Galceran, a cardinal.	50
Many mistake the parentage of this cardinal.	51
Giovanni's first benefices.	53
He is made bishop of Monreale.	54
He is raised to the cardinalate.	54
He receives many more dioceses, real or imagined.	55
He dies in Rome.	55
Galceran, brother of Giovanni de Borgia.	56

ARTICLE IV. — Aunt Juana and the Serra cousins.

Aunt Juana and her husband Bartholomew de Serra	57
De Serra, a condottiere of the papal army.	57
He succeeds Roderic de Borgia as captain of the papal guard.	58
Cardinal James Serra.	58
John and Jofre Serra, cousins of Alexander VI.	59

ARTICLE V. — Uncle Juan and cardinal Francis de Borgia.

The cardinal, a son of Juan and not of Calixtus III.	60
Birth and first benefices of Francis de Borgia.	61
Francis, a knight of St. John of Jerusalem.	61
A prothonotary apostolic and treasurer general.	62
Made bishop of Teano and archbishop of Cosenza.	63
Made a cardinal and tutor of Roderic of Aragon and of the Infant Giovanni de Borgia.	63
He rebelled against pope Julius II.	64

ARTICLE VI. — Other paternal relatives.

Roderic de Borgia, bishop of Urgel and of Barcelona.	65
Alfonso de Borgia accompanies the cardinal legate Roderic to Spain.	65
Joannes de Borgia.	66
Likely other paternal aunts besides Juana.	67
Raymund Castellar and his son, Jerome.	67
John Castellar and his first benefices.	68
Made archbishop of Trani and cardinal.	68
Francis de Loriz and his first benefices.	69
Made bishop of Terni and fills important offices.	69
Is elevated to the cardinalate.	70

ARTICLE VII. — Unidentified cousins of Alexander VI.

Roderic and other de Borgias.	71
Joannes Marades, a " consanguineus " of Alexander VI.	73
Genealogical tree of the paternal relatives.	75

CHAPTER III.

Maternal relatives of pope Alexander VI.

ARTICLE I. — Uncle and aunts of pope Alexander.

Pope Alexander's mother had one brother and three sisters.	77
Alfonso de Borgia, pope Calixtus III.	78
Bishop of Corbio and counsellor of the king of Aragon.	79
Bishop of Majorca, he ends the schism of the West.	79
Cardinal of Valencia.	80
Pope Calixtus III's efforts against the Turks.	81
The victory of Belgrade.	82
Calixtus III abandoned by the Christian princes.	83
Calixtus a careful pope, condemns robbery and slavery.	85

ARTICLE II. — Pope Alexander's aunts, Juana and Catherine de Borgia.

Juana married Mateo Marti, or Martini.	86
Galcerand and Bartholomew Martini.	86
Catherine married John del Milà ; her children.	87

ARTICLE III. — Adriana del Milà.

Adriana, wife of Ludovico Orsini and soon his widow.	89
Her son, Ursinus married Julia Farnese.	90
Adriana, governess of Lucretia de Borgia.	91
Superintendent of pope Alexander's domestic affairs.	91
Payments of her salary.	91
Laura, her granddaughter married the nephew of pope Julius II.	93

ARTICLE IV. — Ausias and cardinal Lewis John del Milà.

Ausias and his children.	94
Lewis John, bishop of Segorve and legate of Bologna.	95

A cardinal and recipient of many benefices.	95
Cardinal Lewis John del Milà retires.	96
Francis and Alfonso del Milà.	98
Damietta del Milà marries Gerard de Cathaneis, lord of Castel- vert and of Olocan.	98
Aunt Francisca, a nun.	99
Genealogical tree of pope Alexander's maternal relatives.	100

CHAPTER IV.

Brothers of pope Alexander VI.

ARTICLE I. — Some unknown brothers and sisters.

Alexander's brothers and sisters little known.	101
Michael de Borgia, to help cardinal Scarampo.	102
He goes to assist George Kastriota Scanderbeg.	103
Gabriel, Baldassare and a second Michael de Borgia.	104

ARTICLE II. — Pedro Luis de Borgia.

Pedro Luis a chamberlain of the king of Aragon.	106
Made castellan of Sant' Angelo and other fortresses.	107
Named governor of Spoleto and of other places.	108
He leads the papal army against the Orsini.	111
Made prefect of Rome.	112
Ferdinand I seizes Naples, Benevento and Terracina.	113
Pedro Luis made vicar of Benevento and Terracina.	113
Did Calixtus III intend to make him king of Naples, king of Cyprus and emperor of Constantinople?	114
Pedro Luis surrenders Sant' Angelo.	116
He gives up all castles and dies.	117
Pedro Luis slandered like all other Borgias.	118
Pedro Luis left no children.	120

CHAPTER V.

Sisters of pope Alexander VI.

ARTICLE I. — Joanna de Borgia and her children.

Joanna marries Pedro Guglielmo Lanzol.	123
The Lanzol family favored by Roman Pontiffs.	124

Confusion about Pedro Guglielmo's and Joanna's children.	126
Cardinal Giovanni de Borgia, the younger, was not Joanna's child.	127
Nor was cardinal Pedro Luis de Borgia.	128
Neither was Angela de Borgia.	128
Guglielmo and Joanna deprived of their true children.	129

ARTICLE II. — William Raymund Lanzol y de Borgia.

Two sons of Guglielmo Lanzol and Joanna de Borgia suppressed by the Osuna record.	130
Joñe de Borgia not a first-born and Roderic ignored.	131
The first-born was William Raymund.	131
William Raymund different from his namesake, his nephew	131
He married Vanotia de Cathaneis, daughter of Gerard, lord of Castelvert and of Damietta del Milà.	132
He lived a useful, quiet life ; but died early.	134

ARTICLE III. — Vanotia Borgia de Cathaneis.

Various names of pope Alexander's imputed concubine.	135
Why did Vanotia add " de Borgia " to her surname ?	136
" It is wrong " to say that she was a courtesan	138
The silence of History on younger Vannoza is cardinal Roderic de Borgia's justification.	139
She never met pope Alexander VI.	140
Vannoza married Dominic de Arignano.	140
Cardinal de Borgia cares for her youngest children.	141
Vannoza leaves Spain for Rome.	142
Vannoza said to have married George della Croce.	143
Oddities of this marriage, if of Vannoza—was de Borgia.	143
Vannoza—Borgia?—married Carlo Canale.	145
Vanotia Borgia and Vannoza della Croce are two different persons.	146
Vannoza della Croce, a young active woman, and Vanotia Borgia, an oldish mother.	147
The former, a common person, and the latter, a high lady.	148
The former loves to make money and to keep it, the latter to do charity.	149
Vannoza della Croce became poor, Vanotia Borgia was and remained wealthy.	150
A late monument to prove the two to be identical.	152
The monument is a forgery.	153
Still another marriage attributed to Vanotia Borgia.	154
Vanotia was a charitable and pious lady.	155
MarcAnthony Altieri praises her liberality.	155
Her death.	155

Leo X pays her honor. Gregorovius rebuked.	156
The funeral monument of Vannoza Borgia.	158
Why her husbands and all her children are not mentioned by the inscription.	159

ARTICLE IV. — Daughters of William Raymund Lanzol y de Borgia.

Isabella, universally ignored ; Girolama, Lucretia.	160
Girolama, not the daughter of Roderic cardinal de Borgia.	160
A certain Isabella Borgia married to John Mattuci.	161
The record of this marriage sustained by an interpolation of Burchard's Diary.	162
Record of Girolama Borgia's marriage. Girolama not cardinal de Borgia's daughter.	164

CHAPTER VI.

Pedro Luis de Borgia.

ARTICLE I. — His origin and glorious youth.

Pedro, a wealthy proprietor in Spain.	167
His parents, William Raymund and Vannoza de Borgia.	168
Pedro Luis, a " relative ", not a son of Alexander VI.	170
Born about 1460, in Spain.	171
Shield bearer and chamberlain of the king of Spain.	172
A captain, is the first to enter the fortress of Ronda.	172
Pedro Luis and his brothers made " Egregii ".	173

ARTICLE II. — Pedro Luis de Borgia, first duke of Gandia.

Pedro, a wealthy proprietor in Spain.	176
The territory of Gandia was his.	176
Ducal rights and land of Gandia were encumbered.	177
King Ferdinand plays a business trick on Pedro Luis.	178
The King unjust to Pedro and his uncles.	178
King and Queen excommunicated, make restitution.	178
Pedro Luis clears the duchy of Gandia.	178
Cardinal Roderic de Borgia did not buy Gandia.	179
Duplex false document to confirm the error.	180
Extrinsic evidence of its forgery.	181
The forgery proved by its contents.	181
Diploma granting the title and ducal rights.	185

Pope Alexander VI did not procure the duchy of Gandia.	186
Pedro Luis favors the religious interests of Gandia.	186
He rebuilds the church and becomes its patron.	187
He marries the King's first-cousin, Mary Enriquez.	188
Pedro Luis died in Spain before the 26 th of February, 1491.	189

CHAPTER VII.

Giovanni de Borgia, second duke of Gandia.

ARTICLE I. — Giovanni in Spain.

Giovanni, the senior of Cesar de Borgia.	191
Giovanni born in 1474, at Valencia in Spain.	193
He first appears in Italy in A. D. 1492.	194
Why does Burchard call him son of the Pope?	195
His mother was Vanotia Borgia de Cathaneis.	195
His father is indicated in a royal document.	197
In a French document he is called a "nepveu", a nephew, of pope Alexander VI.	200
Heir of his brother, Pedro Luis, he marries his fiancée, and not an illegitimate daughter of Alfonso, king of Naples.	203
Giovanni fosters piety towards the Blessed Virgin.	204
He visits Rome and assists at the marriage of his sister Lucretia.	205
Giovanni returns to Spain on August 4 th , 1493.	206

ARTICLE II. — Giovanni de Borgia Captain General of the papal army.

The Pope calls Giovanni but the King retains him in Spain.	207
He becomes a condottiere in the papal army.	208
Governor of the Patrimony and Captain general of the Church.	209
Giovanni commences war on the rebel Orsini.	210
Giovanni's successes at first.	211
He loses the battle of Soriano.	212
The Pope prepares for further war.	213
But finally makes peace with the Orsini.	213
The Orsini to pay seventy thousand ducats.	214
Giovanni helps Gonsalvo to take Ostia.	215
Giovanni is, it seems, named duke of Benevento.	216

ARTICLE III. — Murder of Giovanni de Borgia.

Relation of the murder.	217
The Pontiff deeply affected by the news.	223
Did he intend to resign? Maximilian praises his fortitude.	224

Who were the assassins? High personages suspected.	224
Various testimonies about suspects.	225
The Pope declares innocent the lord of Pesaro, Jofre de Borgia, the duke of Urbino and cardinal Sforza.	227
The Orsini are much suspected.	228
The Pope declares the Orsini to be guilty.	229
A year later della Pigna accuses Cesar de Borgia.	231
Four years later Cesar is accused by Polo Capello.	233
By the infamous letter to Sylvius Savelli.	233
The imputation is believed by several authors.	234
Curita returns it to the Orsini.	235
Gregorovius holds Cesar as guilty, but Pastor proves his innocence.	236
No proof nor reason to accuse Cesar.	236
Acts of Alexander VI establish Cesar's innocence.	237
The suspicion against Cesar is vanishing rapidly.	238
A word about Giovanni de Borgia's wife and children.	239

CHAPTER VIII.

Cesar de Borgia.

ARTICLE I. — Cesar in Spain. His first benefices.

Cesar a son not of Julia Farnese nor of Alexander VI, but of William Raymond de Borgia and his wife.	241
Cesar born at Valencia in Spain.	242
Cesar passed his childhood in Spain.	243
He was first heard of in Italy in A. D. 1488.	243
Was Cesar born in the year 1473?	245
If so, Cesar could not possibly be Alexander's son.	246
Two dozen documents prove Cesar to be born between August 9 th , 1474 and October 1 st , 1476.	248
According to documents Cesar was born between September 12 th , 1475 and August 9 th , 1476.	249
Cesar born in April 1476.	250
A cadet, he was devoted to the ecclesiastical career.	251
Can accept benefices when entering his seventh year.	251
Two forged bulls from the Osuna archives and a false bull of legitimation disproved by authentic records.	252
A remark on the Osuna forgeries.	254
More benefices granted to Cesar in 1484.	255
All his benefices were in Spain.	256
Cesar allowed to farm them out for three years.	257
Cesar favored during the year 1486.	257

ARTICLE II. — Cesar de Borgia in Italy; a student, a bishop.

Cesar leaves Spain for Italy.	258
Cesar, a student at the University of Perugia.	258
He is made a prothonotary apostolic.	259
He moves to the University of Pisa.	259
Is named bishop of Pamplona.	259
Stories about Cesar at Alexander's election.	261
Cesar made archbishop of Valencia.	262
And abbot of Valdeгна.	263
Cesar loses several benefices.	263
Cesar obtains abbeys and the diocese of Nantes.	265

ARTICLE III. — Cesar de Borgia, a cardinal.

When was Cesar raised to the cardinalate?	266
Is created a cardinal without any dispensation.	267
Infessura asserts Cesar to be the Pope's son.	268
Ridiculous assertion of Infessura.	269
Cesar receives more abbeys and the diocese of Chartres.	271
Cesar is reluctantly ordained subdeacon and deacon.	273
Jofre de Borgia's benefices transferred to Cesar.	273
Cesar receives many more benefices.	274
Is named bishop of Elna or Perpignan.	275
Cesar made governor of Spoleto, till Julius II.	275
Cardinal Cesar given as hostage to Charles VIII.	276
Delegated to crown king Frederic of Naples.	277
The sword of Cesar de Borgia.	278
Cesar's imputed intention to marry his brother's wife.	279
Cardinal Cesar never inclined to clerical life.	279
He obtains hunting dogs from the archbishop of Mainz.	281
Cesar wishes to resign as a clergyman.	281
Malipiero says that Cesar wanted the heritage of his father.	282
Cesar requests permission to resign.	283
And gives up the cardinalate and all his benefices.	285

CHAPTER IX.

Jofre de Borgia.

Jofre, a nephew of pope Alexander VI, born in Spain.	287
Is given to the care and service of the Church.	288
Jofre receives benefices in Spain.	288
Jofre leaves the imposed clerical career.	289
Jofre affianced to Sancia of Aragon.	291

Is retained in Rome by the Pope.	292
Later marries in Naples.	293
Jofre proclaimed prince of Squillace, etc. and his brothers greatly favored by the king of Naples.	294
Jofre returned with his wife to live in Rome.	295
Jofre, a condottiere in the papal army.	297
He lives in Naples shortly after Alexander's death.	298
After Sancia's death Jofre remarried and had issue.	299

CHAPTER X.

Lucretia de Borgia.

ARTICLE I. — Lucretia's childhood and education.

Lucretia, a sister-german of Giovanni de Borgia and a niece of pope Alexander VI.	301
Not born in Rome, but in Valencia in Spain.	303
Import of an inquest ordered by Ercole of Este.	305
When was Lucretia born?	306
Lucretia arrived in Rome probably in A. D. 1488.	308
Confided to Adriana del Milà.	308
Completes her higher education.	308

ARTICLE II. — Lucretia engaged, marries Giovanni Sforza.

Imputed marriage of Lucretia with Cherubim de Centelles.	310
Lucretia betrothed to Gaspar de Prochita.	312
A third Spanish suitor, the conde de Prada.	313
Marriage contract of Lucretia and Giovanni Sforza.	314
The marriage at the Vatican. Decent wedding feast.	315
After a year in Pesaro, Lucretia returns to Rome.	316
Giovanni leaves Rome and Lucretia retires to a convent.	317
Inquest into their marriage, declared invalid.	318
Gregorovius scandalized at a legal formality.	319
Giovanni repays the dot and takes revenge by slander.	320
Lucretia further accused and defended.	320

ARTICLE III. — Lucretia married with Alfonso, duke of Bisceglia.

The duke of Gravina and the prince of Salerno apply for Lucretia's hand.	322
The duke of Bisceglia proposed by the king of Naples.	322
The duke of Bisceglia visits in Rome.	324
The marriage contract and the dowry.	325

Simple wedding at the Vatican and festivities.	326
The duke of Bisceglia departs for Gennazzano.	327
Lucretia named governess of Spoleto, Foligno and Nepi.	327
Alfonso joins his lady and the Pope visits them.	329
Lucretia gives birth to a son, Rodrigo.	331
Lucretia buys Sermoneta and its territories.	331

ARTICLE IV. — Murder of Alfonso, duke of Bisceglia.

Alfonso wounded under St. Peter's vestibule.	333
The Pope gives him a guard and medical care.	333
Cesar de Borgia forbids the carrying of arms.	333
Contradictory rumors implicating Cesar de Borgia.	334
There is no proof against Cesar.	337
All suspects arrested, tried and set free.	338
Strange prejudice of Gregorovius against the Pope.	338
The Orsini were likely the guilty parties.	339
Burial of the duke of Bisceglia.	340
Lucretia retires to Nepi and cares for the soul of her husband and for her son.	341
The Pope protects the orphan's possessions.	341

ARTICLE V. — Lucretia married with Alfonso of Este.

The duke of Gravina requests Lucretia's hand, while the Colonna hope to obtain it.	342
Alfonso of Este preferred and cardinal Ferrari opens negoti- ations with the duke of Ferrara.	343
Louis XII favors the marriage and opposes it too late.	345
Alfonso, reluctant at first, fully consents.	346
Settlement of dower and marriage in Ferrara.	346
Lucretia, a caretaker of the absent Pontiff's apartments.	347
Festivities at the news of Lucretia's marriage.	348
Ferrara made a duchy, its census reduced, and Cento and Pieve added to it.	349
An alleged scandal at the Vatican.	351
The brothers of Alfonso to escort Lucretia to Ferrara.	352
The marriage ceremony completed in Rome.	353
Payment of Lucretia's dower.	353

ARTICLE VI. — Lucretia de Borgia in Ferrara.

Lucretia journeys to Ferrara, is met by her husband and solemnly received in the city.	354
In danger of death, she convalesces in a convent.	355

She mourns her foster father, and is anxious about her and Cesar's sons and Cesar himself.	356
She becomes duchess of Ferrara. Her qualities and virtues.	357
Lucretia, a governess of Ferrara.	357
Three letters at her death are her best panegyric.	359
Her calumniators were strangers to her.	361
The Ferrarese envoys, her first apologists.	362
Her praises in Ferrara were earned in Rome.	363
A medal of Lucretia de Borgia.	364
Ariosto and others praise her life in Ferrara.	365

ARTICLE VI. — Children of Lucretia de Borgia.

Lucretia obliged to leave her son, Rodrigo, cared for by pope Alexander VI.	366
Rodrigo's tutor, cardinal Francis de Borgia, increases his duchy of Sermoneta.	367
Rodrigo in charge of Sancia and Isabella of Aragon.	368
The Infant Giovanni de Borgia, no son of Lucretia.	368
Lucretia's children by Alfonso of Este.	369

CHAPTER XI.

Jofre and Roderic Lanzol y de Borgia.

ARTICLE I. — Jofre and his children.

Jofre a son of Pedro Gugl. Lanzol and Joanna de Borgia.	371
Jofre, a cleric at first, receives benefices.	372
He marries and obtains Villalonga.	373
He and his brothers change their name into de Borgia.	374
Jofre, a papal envoy to Spain.	375
Procurator for his niece, Lucretia, in Rome.	376
Administrator of the benefices of his son, Pedro Luis.	376
He visits Rome again in A. D. 1497.	377
He is a pensioner of pope Alexander VI.	377
Jofre resides in Rome and dies before May, 1501.	378
Sons of Jofre Lanzol y de Borgia: Roderic, Giovanni, Pedro Luis and William Raymund.	378

ARTICLE II. — Roderic de Borgia.

Roderic, lord of Villalonga and of Anna.	378
Captain of the palace guard.	379
A confraternity of the Conception of the Blessed Virgin.	380
Roderic's children.	382

ARTICLE III. — Cardinal Giovanni de Borgia, Jr.

Cardinal Giovanni, not son but nephew of Alexander VI	383
Born in Valencia in Spain.	384
A cleric, he obtains many benefices.	384
Is made bishop of Melfi.	385
Sent as Legate to Naples and created cardinal.	385
Legate to Bologna, Ravenna and Romagna.	387
Governor of Narni, Spoleto, etc.	387
Archbishop of Capua and of Valencia.	387
Papal envoy to Florence, Venice and to Louis XII in Milan.	388
Celebrates 1499 Christmas in Cesar de Borgia's camp.	389
He dies of fever in January, 1500.	389
Cesar accused of having given him slow poison.	392

ARTICLE IV. — Cardinal Pedro Ludovico de Borgia.

Becomes a knight of St. John of Jerusalem.	394
Receives many benefices administered by his father.	395
Is named archbishop of Valencia and cardinal.	396
Reason why exempted from tithes.	397
Governor of Narni. Archbishop of Monreale.	397
At Julius II's accession he flees to Naples, where he dies.	398

ARTICLE V. — William Raymund de Borgia and sisters.

Was a second-nephew of the Pope.	399
A condottiere in the papal army.	399
A captain of the palace guard.	400
He dies in Rome a few days before Alexander VI.	401
Hieronyma de Borgia, a daughter of Jofre.	401
Angela de Borgia in Rome and in Ferrara.	402

ARTICLE VI. — Roderic Lanzol y de Borgia.

Was son of Pedro G. Lanzol and Joanna de Borgia.	403
Captain of the palace guard till 1495.	403
The Pope grants him spiritual favors.	404
In Valencia he becomes a pensioner of the Pope.	405
Isabella Lanzol y de Borgia marries her cousin, Luis Jofre del Milà.	407

CHAPTER XII.

Ladies Tecla and Beatrix, sisters of Alexander VI.

ARTICLE I. — Tecla de Borgia.

Tecla corresponds with the poet Ausias March.	409
Marries Vidal de Villanova, an officer of the fleet of pope Calixtus III.	410
A widow, dies in 1459, probably leaving a daughter.	411

ARTICLE II. — Beatrix de Borgia.

Marries Ximen Perez de Arenos, an officer of the fleet of Calixtus III.	411
Beatrix congratulated at Alexander's election.	412
She writes to him. Obtains spiritual privileges.	412
Beatrix, a pensioner of her brother, the Pope.	412
Dies a few days before the Pontiff.	413
Several Arenos receive benefices.	413
Synopsis of Alexander VI, his brother and sisters, of the children of his sister Joanna, and of the children of his nephew William Raymund de Borgia.	414

APPENDIX

A discussion of the imputed illegitimacy of William Raymund de Borgia's children.	415
---	-----

CHAPTER XIII.

Children attributed to pope Alexander VI.

ARTICLE I. — Some were called both, " sons " and " nephews ".

Burchard, like the Romans, calls them sons and daughter.	419
A similar case within our own experience.	421
Jofre de Borgia called a " nephew son " of the Pope.	422

Bembo consoles Lucretia at the death of Alexander VI by calling him her great father.	423
Several contemporaries call Cesar a nephew of the Pope.	423
When the Borgia children are first called bastards.	424
Two facts that disprove the calumny.	424
Coeval ambassadors call Lucretia, niece, and Cesar, nephew.	425
Ferdinand of Naples calls Jofre, a nephew, and Lucretia, a niece of the Pope.	426
Cardinal Caesarini calls Cesar, Giovanni and Jofre, nephews of the Pope.	427
Alfonso II of Naples calls Jofre, a nephew of the Pope.	428
The German princes, the king of France and the Vatican library call Cesar, nephew of the Pope.	428
Ancient and late historians call Cesar a nephew of the Pope.	429

ARTICLE II. — Official and business documents hold Cesar de Borgia, his brothers and sister, as nephews and niece of the Pope.

Orvieto and Venice call Cesar, a nephew of the Pope.	432
Innocent VIII calls Pedro Luis a "consanguineus" of cardinal Roderic de Borgia.	432
The Borgia children, called "nepveux et parens" in a business contract between the Pope and Louis XII.	433
In a lawsuit of 1573 Cesar is called nephew of Alexander VI, and Alexander, his uncle.	433
In an agreement between the Pope and Frederic of Naples, Lucretia is called niece of the Pope.	434
The idea of Lucretia's filiation from the Pope is excluded in her preparatory act of marriage with Giovanni Sforza.	434
No temporalities common between the Pope and his alleged children.	435
A false document calls Lucretia an illegitimate.	436

ARTICLE III. — Alexander VI did not recognize any children as his own.

Was Alexander VI a hypocrite and a profligate at the same time?	438
Alexander calls Lucretia his "daughter in Christ".	439
The color of their escutcheon is different.	440
The Pope calls Giovanni and Cesar, like other Christians, beloved sons; but they call him "Our Holy Lord".	440
Cesar calls him father once, and then "Father in Christ".	441
Cesar calls himself the Pope's "devotissima factura".	442

The Pope calls Cesar "cor nostrum".	443
Ferdinand speaks of "mingling his blood" with that of the Pope.	443
Alexander VI designates Jofre as brother of Cesar de Borgia.	445

CHAPTER XIV.

False documents naming William Raymund de Borgia's children, children of pope Alexander VI.

ARTICLE I. — Documents of the archives of the duke of Osuna.

de l'Epinois hardly uses them. Pastor mentions them as a menace, but does not touch any of them.	447
Some of them already disproved.	448
They all lack record in the Vatican Registers.	449
Forgers punished at the time.	450
Pope Alexander VI inconvenienced by false bulls.	450
Notarial acts not reliable.	451

ARTICLE II. — Interpolations in the Vatican Archives.

Popes Alexander VI and Paul II warn us against falsifications of the Vatican records.	453
Such papal admonitions originated the science of diplomatics.	456
The Vatican records could be interpolated.	456
Was there no one to forge records against Alexander VI?	458

ARTICLE III. — Pedro Luis de Borgia falsely legitimated.

Sixtus IV legitimates him, to enable him to inherit duchies, etc. in Spain.	459
Sixtus IV confirms a gift of Cardinal de Borgia to his illegitimate, Pedro Luis and Giovanni.	459
Innocent VIII orders Pedro Luis to be received in a monastery despite his illegitimacy.	465

ARTICLE IV. — False document about Giovanni de Borgia.

Giovanni never legitimated by a Pope or by Ferdinand King of Spain.	472
A Roman quasi notarial act giving to Giovanni, called illegitimate, as tutors his brothers Pedro Luis and Otto de Borgia.	473

ARTICLE V. — Legitimations of Cesar de Borgia.

Cesar legitimated by Sixtus IV.	477
Cesar legitimated by Ferdinand of Spain.	481
The whole bull of Cesar's alleged legitimation unusually rehearsed at the concession of a benefice.	484
The forgery extended in the Osuna archives.	487
Thuasne's advice to apologists of Alexander VI.	491
Bulls in favor of Cesar without any reference to illegitimacy.	491
Forgers disagree in slandering the Pope.	493
Cesar is legitimated.	493
Is adopted.	501

ARTICLE VI. — Jofre de Borgia legitimated.

The Bibliotheca Barberini reports a legitimation of Jofre de Borgia.	506
Records to that effect disproved by their location in the Vatican archives and other evidences.	506
A dispensation—legitimation—adoption bull, to enable Jofre to inherit duchies, etc.	516

ARTICLE VII. — False documents regarding
Lucretia de Borgia.

Notarial acts to disgrace Alexander VI.	522
Lucretia de Borgia said to have married Alfonso of Este in the second degree of affinity.	522
Extract from a pretended record interpolated as a record itself.	522
Conclusion.	528